Overall, this class series moves sequentially through the body, starting from the feet up to the crown of the head. This therapeutic class will be held weekly and create the opportunity for all athletes to build strength and increase flexibility to reduce or prevent injuries. The first half of each class is focused on warming up and activating specific muscles or groups of muscles, then the second half of class is deep stretching and longer holds, to release habitual tightness and soften the fascia around these muscle cells through myofascial release.
